This class of cases, he thought they would all admit, was by no means uncommon. He thought it had already been settled by Dr. Wright s paper, which goes over this subject very thoroughly, referring to the results of early operations by German surgeons in attempting to prevent a further invasion of tuberculous bacilli, that disastrous results had followed, as Dr. Phelps knows, and all of us know who have watched these cases. Dr. Gale has also given them some excellent tables of the result of excision in young children. He thought if Dr. Sherman, in connection with this subject, would give them a complete account of his own operative cases, with all the degrees of motion, atrophy, etc., that it would add very much to the value of the report: He wanted to congratulate Dr. Sherman on his able presentation of the operative side of the question. Dr. Sherman said, in closing the debate, that if they would look over his table it would be found there were no statistics embracing children under two years of age. He thought there was no child that he had operated upon under two years except one, and that child died of tubercular meningitis. Before he went on any further he would say a few words as regards the advantages of a child s hospital in San Francisco--that the establishment of orthopedic service was found to supply a long-felt want. Before that, there...
